ADVICE FROM BRICE.

Cash to Conduct the Campaign.

PEOPLE TO PAY THE FIDDLER.

Chili Rebels Reported as Fighting.

Court Causes Lively Sales of Sugar Stock.

Brice to the Unterrified.
By Associated Press.]

NEW YORK, July 1.—Senator Brice, Chairman of the National Democratic Committee, has written a letter of warning and advice to his fellow members of the National Committee. The letter embodies advice in regard to the association of Democratic clubs and the necessity of the National Committee's co-operation with them. He begins with the statement that the Presidential contest is near at hand, that the Republicans are rapidly preparing for it and the Democrats cannot be too circumspect or too swift to meet. The plan of the campaign of the Republicans, he says is a colossal system of clubs to be maintained and supported by unlimited means drawn from the pockets of beneficiaries of the monopoly policy. This system, he urges, can only be met by an equally extensive system of voluntary Democratic clubs; that is, associations of the people in their several neighborhoods for the defence of their rights and interests against those banded to assail them. Brice thinks the approaching struggle is to be one mainly between these organizations; and it is greatly to be desired that a uniform and perfected system of Democratic societies be thoroughly organized and in intimate association with each other, shall be established before the beginning of next year. He says he examined the plan of organization now in process of successful accomplishment by the National Association of Democratic Clubs and he feels it the duty of every member of the National Executive Committee to give the association his most hearty support, and he urges each member of the national committee to co-operate with the association to the fullest extent in the work undertaken by the executive committee of clubs, absolutely necessary to be done. In Brice's opinion and in his letter he states the opportunity is now presented of having it accomplished by an efficient instrument at a minimum cost, and that distributed over so many localities as not to be a burden to any one committee. Brice concludes his letter as follows: An important feature of the plan is the selection of correspondents in the several States. This now requires urgent attention in your State. I would therefore ask you to confer with the chairman of your State committee as soon as may be convenient, and arrange this particular part of the plan; also that you will do all in your power to facilitate the organization in other ways that you may think best.

French in Siam.

LONDON, July 1.—A dispatch to the Standard from Bangkok, Siam, says the French troops have occupied the province of Luang Prabang, east of the Kekong river, hitherto a vassel state of Siam.

The Standard supposed the occupation of Luang Prabang is a prelude to an eventual attempt by France to annex Siam, with the object, possibly, of assisting Russian designs in eastern Asia.

Hair Splitting Statistics.

WASHINGTON (D. C.), July 1.—Immigration into the United States from 1820 to 1890 is the subject of a special report, which was prepared by the chief of the bureau of statistics to the Treasury Department, and will soon be published. The arrivals of immigrants from 1820 to 1890 have reached 15,641,688. The proportion of arrivals from Europe has increased from 68.69 per cent. of the whole immigration in the time from 1821 to 1820, to 91.67 per cent. in the last decade from 1881 to 1890. Germany and Ireland are the countries sending the greatest number of emigrants. The only leading countries from which the arrivals have fallen off during the past ten years are France and China. The year of the largest immigration yet reported was that which ended June 20, 1882, when the arrivals were 738,992. The immigration from Italy was 15,401 for the fiscal year 1881 and has steadily increased until in 1890, when it was 52,000, and the present year, ending June 30, 1891, when the total for months reached 51,153, as against 34,310 for corresponding months of 1890. Of arrivals during ten years, from 1881 to 1890, 61.1 per cent. were males. The greatest proportion of females came from Ireland; the smallest percentage of females from Italy and Hungary. The classification and character of immigration during the past decade shows only 26,257 males were of the professional classes; 514,552 skilled laborers; 1,833,325 of miscellaneous occupations; 73,327 made no statement in regard to occupation, and 759,450 were without [occupation. Of 2,040,102 females, 1,724,454 were without occupation.

LONDON, July 1.—France declined to sign a renewal of the North Sea convention to prevent the illicit traffic in alcohol among fishermen. This, combined, with France's attitude toward the Brussels convention, is regarded as a retort to England's attitude toward the Driebund and is likely to impede the settlement of the Newfoundland question.

An Odessa correspondent of the News says the Governors of Kieff, Podolia and Volpynia have issued a decree announcing all foreigners in their provinces must either become naturalized citizens or leave the country. The decree is aimed at populous German colonies adjacent to the Austrian frontier.

NEW YORK, July 1.—Judge Barnard sitting in the Supreme Court, granted an injunction restricting the payment of the dividend on stock of the sugar refinery company. When this announcement was made in Wall street, it created a furor in the market. Sugar stock, which had sold as high as 84 dropped to 81, then sold up again to 82½.

Unwelcome News.

To-day's Enterprise contains this unwelcome news about a Reno young lady, the daughter of J. B. Williams.

Last evening Miss Rella Williams of Reno, while returning from a party given to Miss Eunice Brown of this city by a number of young people, was suddenly seized with a fainting fit, followed by hemorrhage. She was at once conveyed to the residence of Mrs. B. F. Layton—the guest of whose daughter Miss Flora, she has been for several weeks—and medical aid summoned. Alarming reports were soon spread about town, but as the Enterprise goes to press it is learned that the young lady's condition is not critical. Her mother is with her, having arrived yesterday morning.

The Arcade Ice Cream Parlors.

H. J. Greenbower has rented the Arcade Restaurant and will open it to the public to-morrow evening as a first class ice cream parlor, where one can obtain ice cream, candies and soda served in excellent style in private booths or family dining rooms free from intrusion or observation, or at public tables in the hall ordinaire. It should prove an attractive resort, and will no doubt, be appreciated and patronized extensively, for Reno has long needed such an establishment.

IOWA REPUBLICANS.

A Governor without a Contest.

THE PARTY ON PROHIBITION.

The Temperature To-day Attracts Attention.

Iowa Republicans.
By Associated Press.]

CEDAR RAPIDS (Ia.), July 1.—One of the most enthusiastic Republican conventions that ever assembled in Iowa convened in this city to-day. The convention was as distinguished for its harmony and good feeling as has been the conventions of recent years for their discord and dissentions.

Among the audience were many persons of State and National reputation. Senator Allison, Congressmen Henderson, Perkins, Flick, Dolliver and Hull, ex-Governor Gear, ex-Governor Larabee and Solicitor of the Treasury Hepburn occupied seats on the platform, and Mrs. J. Ellen Foster, representative of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, headed a delegation of enthusiastic lady Republicans, who occupied a private box.

Promptly at 11 o'clock Chairman Mack of the State Central Committee called the meeting to order, and a divine blessing was invoked by the Rev. Julius Ward of Grand Rapids. Chairman Mack's speech was short and crisp. It consisted in announcing John Y. Stone as temporary chairman and W. R. Cochrane of Taylor county as temporary secretary.

In assuming the chair Stone made a rousing speech, which was interrupted many times by applause. Having thanked the convention for the distinction of being called upon to preside over it, he said:

"A most important crisis is upon us. The political power of the State is at stake. The good results achieved by the Republican party during its rule of thirty years are endangered. The Democratic party of Iowa is in battle and in ambush. Masked behind the pretense of seeking a decision of a local question, it is aiming by a brilliant stroke to turn Iowa over to the National Democracy, and give it control of the executive and legislative branches of the State government, and it will so group counties into Congressional districts as to give it the greatest possible opportunity to capture delegations in the Congressional elections next year. It will so reorganize representative districts next winter as to give it the greatest chance of winning the General Assembly of 1893, and the consequent election of a United States Senator in 1894. More than this, if successful it will imitate the stroke of the Michigan Democracy and provide for the election of Presidential electors in its gerrymandered districts, and thus give to the Democratic Presidential candidate a portion of the Iowa vote in the electoral college of 1892. Are the Republicans of Iowa ready for a consummation like this?"

The speaker said the Prohibition question will still be a local issue and that the Republican party of Iowa is still in the fight in favor of it. In regard to the People's Party, Stone said: "There is no practical meritorious demand by the promoters of the new movement that they have cause to believe it will not be favorably met by the Republican party."

The so-called two per cent loan he characterized as a device to furnish cheap money to cotton planters; the spoilation of all classes of our countrymen to give to one. The proposition of the new movement for the ownership of railway property by the government, if carried out, would entail an indebtedness of about 5,500,000,000, which would take from a third to a half a century to pay. But this, he stated, would not be the worst result. Should the government become the owner and operator of railways, it would require an army of 2,000,000 federal office holders and employes to carry on their operations. With such an army of officers and men under orders from one head, all acting under the incentive of interest, the chief officer of the government would possess a power greater than that of any monarch of the world. The party that happened in possession of the chief magistracy when this stupendous change in our system occurred could perpetuate itself forever. The speaker referred to the prosperous condition of the farmers at the present time. Then turning to the financial policy of the party, he said: The Republican party places no limit upon its circulating medium, except its value as a purchasing power, demanding all the currency that can be employed in the business exchange of our people. The Republican party, nevertheless, demands each dollar of gold, silver or paper, shall be worth as much and that it can purchase as much as any other dollar. Recognizing the rapidly expanding business of the country and needs and demands of the new and improving conditions, the Republican party already provided for the coinage of silver, equal to all that can be taken from the mines of our country. Stone then praised the administration of President Harrison. "All past peace administrations," he said, "can be safely challenged to present a record for the first two and one-half years that will riva this." [Great applause.] "But one other here can be mentioned—the right arm and loyal friend of his chief, fearless and incomparable Blaine." At mention of the Secretary's name the convention went wild with enthusiasm. "The first citizen of the Republic, he is its greatest civic hero." The speaker commended the record of the party on pension expenditures, and extended sympathy to the disenfranchised Republicans of the South.

Turning to the tariff he said: "Democratic leaders insist the tariff is not the issue in Iowa this year, they never were more mistaken. It never was the issue so much as now. Never before was the issue more clearly drawn before the two parties than now. It will continue to be the issue till free trade is dead and the country placed beyond the dread of its resurrection, or till protection is buried and free trade has turned the country over to foreign domination." The speaker wound up with reciprocity. He said, "there is but one reciprocity, and James G. Blaine is its prophet." [Tremendous applause.] "When he first announced the gospel of the Democratic party, under the spur of the moment it thought it saw free trade standing in a more dazzling light than ever before. But when the shell was broken reciprocity was in the Republican camp and James G. Blaine was its chief priest." [Here the convention became wildly enthusiastic.] The speaker then arraigned the Democratic party for its policy of deception and falsehood and ended with a commendation of the McKinley bill.

After the appointment of committees a recess was taken until 2 P. M. A meeting of the Committee on Permanent Organization was at once held, at which ex-Governor John Gear of of Burlington was selected as permanent chairman of the convention.

The Committee on Resolutions also met immediately after the adjournment of the convention to adopt a platform. The platform, as finally adopted for presentation to the convention, endorsed the McKinley tariff law in the warmest terms, and particularly commends the reciprocity provision and its interpretation and observation by Secretary of State Blaine and President Harrison. The course of the Republican party on the pension question was endorsed, and liberal pensions to disabled soldiers and their widows was urged. The financial question was briefly disposed of by the endorsement of the present silver law. Harrison's administration was endorsed, and the large appropriations of the last Congress defended as having been necessary for the welfare and development of the country and the protection of those to whom liberal appropriations were voted for having hazarded life and limb in defense of their country.

The Prohibition plank of the platform was the last reaffirmed, and the Democratic party local officials are arraigned for conspiring with the law-breaking element for violation and non-observance of the Prohibition law. The course of Iowa's Senators and Representatives in the National Congress was commended and a particular eulogy is extended to Senator Allison for his liberal and patriotic course as Chairman of the Committee on Appropriations.

The World's Fair at Chicago was commended and the Iowa Legislature is urged to make a liberal appropriation for an exhibition of the resources and products of the Hawkeye State.

Immediately after reconvening the convention at 2 P. M., permanent chairman Gear was introduced and made a brief speech, predicting party success on the tariff and local issues. The nomination of State officers was then declared in order and the convention declared no nominating speeches should be permitted. For Governor, Hiram C. Wheeler of Odebolt, Sac county, was nominated on the first ballot with great enthusiasm. He was called upon for a speech and returned thanks for the honor conferred. The committee on resolutions will not report its platform to the convention till late.

George Van Houton was nominated for Lieutenant Governor over the present incumbent, Lieutenant Governor Payner. Van Houten is a stock raiser and organizer of the Farmers' Alliance.

AMSTERDAM, July 1.—The flotilla, escorting the Emperor of Germany and his party, arrived here to-day, accompanied by the Dutch squadron. Upon landing at the dock here, the Emperor was received by the Queen, who is only eleven years of age, and by the Queen Regent Emma, Princess of Waldreck. The Queen Regent was surrounded by a brilliant gathering of cabinet ministers, army officers and municipal and other authorities. After a most imposing ceremony of reception, the imperial guests of Holland were escorted to the palace, where they will be entertained during their stay in this city. All shipping in the harbor and all the main thoroughfares were decorated with flags, and this evening there will be a brilliant illumination in honor of the young Emperor of Germany.

In order to present to the world what Nevada is capable of doing in an agricultural way, the GAZETTE will arrange anything sent to it, in an attractive manner at the Pavilion during Fair week. Apples and other fruit, grain of all kinds, potatoes of different varieties, vegetables of every description, hay, etc., will be arranged, due credit given, and everything necessary to make an attractive display, carried out. We make this offer in order to enable those who cannot come to the Fair to send something; and again a farmer who cannot afford the time, for instance, of preparing but one box of apples for exhibition would hesitate about putting it in alone, when if exhibited in a State collection it would show off to better advantage. Parties sending in any article can rest assured of having it properly entered, and if awarded a premium the same will be forwarded to them as soon as collected. Exhibits are respectfully solicited, not only from the farmers in Nevada, but from those in Lassen, Modoc, Sierra and Plumas counties, California.

It was very artful of Uncle Jerry to bring on these rain-making experiments just as he is about to take up the care of the weather. He is too sharp to get caught with a long spell of drought, and to have all the farmers from Dan to Beersheba cursing him for the spoiling of their crops. Bang, go a few sparks of artillery! and you have rain for seven days, and half a foot of water on the level. One hundred and sixty-two weather sharps were discharged to-day to be appointed over again by Uncle Jerry. The War Department will no longer have charge of the weather, for it has been transferred to the Department of Agriculture, where it belongs.

A full and authentic account of the reasons for the dismissal of Bismarck by the Emperor of Germany is given for the first time, in an article by Prof. F. Heinrich Geffchen, Privy Councilor, which appears in the July Forum. Geffchen explains also the influence of Bismarck as a member of the Reichstag, and gives a review of the young Emperor's policy and an estimate of his character. The story of Bismarck's career as Chancellor, its greatness and its corruption, and its abrupt end is perhaps the most interesting one in modern politics and Geffchen has told it in a brief and interesting way.

Italy appears to have cast her lot definitely with the Dreibund, and is in for a continuance of big expenditures, high taxation and hard times, in order to keep up a fiest-class position with a second-class resources. Italy's population was sufficient to warrant the efforts she has been putting forth for the last thirty years, but ages of oppression and depression had left her ill equipped in education, industrial develoment and all artificial resources for such a strain. She has overreached herself in trying to become a Great Power in a hurry.

It appears that our British cousins believe that tin-plate could not be successfully manufactured in the United States on account of atmospheric conditions. They might have known, had they stopped to think, that we have all kinds of climates in this big country. As it is they will probably charge the McKinley bill with the change they have discovered in our meteorology.

Senator Stewart replies to Andrew Carnegie's article on the A. B. C. of money in the June number of the North American Review through the Columns of the New York World, and winds the great Scotch war king up so tight that he will find it very difficult to get out of the tangle.

The gates of our ports still open inward, and with a proper discrimination against undesirable immigration our home market will grow larger every year. We are a nation of high wages and large consumers, and a Protective Tariff will keep us such.

POISONED ARROW POINTS.

General Use of These Deadly Weapons Among Ancient and Modern Savages.

"The use of poisoned arrows is undoubtedly of very ancient origin," said Dr. W. J. Hoffman to a writer for the Washington Star. "They are believed to have been employed in Europe in prehistoric times, and later on, according to Aristotle, Strabo and Pliny, the Celts and Gauls envenomed their shafts with the juice of a plant of the genus hellebore. The Scythians prepared arrow poison by mixing serpent venom with the serum of putrid blood, and other instances are recorded in classic literature of people about the Black sea and in Asia Minor who practiced similar arts.

"The Ainos of Japan prepare a poison for spreading upon bamboo or metal arrow points to kill game with, a small portion of flesh about the wound being cut out before the animal is cooked and eaten. In Java, Borneo, New Guinea and other parts of the East India islands the same practice obtains to a considerable extent. The poisoning of arrows prevails extensively in Africa, particularly on the west coast, in the Gaboon, among the Somali and with Bushmen. By the Bushmen the juice of a plant is used, mixed with the pulp as a venomous worm.

"The best known and most active of arrow poison is the woorara or 'urari' of South America. It is chiefly used for the tips of darts blown from the blowgun, and the most important ingredient is the juice of the plant from which strychnine is obtained, to which is added certain other vegetable elements and serpent venom. In Central America poisons are also employed on arrows and blowgun darts. The Caribs employed, similarly, a poison made from the sap of a tree called the 'manchenilles.' The antidote was the application to the wound of what we know of 'arrowroot.'

"The Seris of northwestern Mexico prepared poison by putting into the ground a cow's liver, rattlesnake, scorpions, centipedes and other unpleasant things and beating them with sticks. Into the mixture the arrow points were dipped. The Apaches and neighboring tribes were until recently in the habit of smearing upon their arrows a composition said to consist of decomposed deer's liver and rattlesnake venom. In some instances crushed red ants are also reported to have been used. A microscopic examination of such a coating upon arrows obtained from the Apaches in 1871 showed the presence of blood and a crystalline substance that was apparently rattlesnake venom. The venom of serpents retains its poisonous properties when dried indefinitely. One instance of poisoning by such an arrow mentioned to me was that of a man whose wound was a mere scratch on the shoulder blade, but previous to death, which ensued, the flesh of the man's back fell off, exposing the ribs and spine in several places.

"The Shoshone and Bannock Indians state that the proper way to poison arrows, as formerly practiced by them, is to secure a deer and cause it to be bitten by a rattlesnake, immediately after which the victim is killed, and the meat removed and placed in a hole in the ground. When the mass has become putrid the arrow points are dipped into it. The Clallams, of Puget Sound, used to make arrow points of copper, which were afterward dipped in sea water and permitted to corrode. I have never met an Indian who would admit the use of poisoned arrows in warfare against man. In nearly all instances where poisons are prepared by Indians the operation is performed with more or less ceremony, chanting and incantation, for the purpose of invoking evil spirits or demons. In their belief the effects of poison are due wholly to the presence in them of malevolent spirits or demons, which enter the body of the victim and destroy life."

HURRAH FOR THE CRANK.

A Chicagoan Appreciates the Genus and Says a Word in His Praise.

It is by no means the worst thing in the world to be called a crank. I find as I prowl up and down through the earth that wherever I meet a man with sufficient individuality to take a stout stand against impurity and shams of every kind, too honest to get rich by underhanded methods and too brave to be a cowardly conformist, he is called a crank. Wherever a woman is found who thinks more of her brain than of the hat that surmounts it she is a crank, says a writer in the Chicago Herald.

Wherever a man is found who honestly believes life holds better things for him than to become a dancing popinjay and a social success by reason of fine clothes and society manners, who would rather wear a shiny seamed coat and an unfashionable hat, and thus gain the means to cultivate his mind and enlarge his soul, he is a crank.

Wherever a young girl is found who laughs at fashion and wears a gown to please herself, rather than to conform to a passing style, who stands by a friend at the risk of becoming unpopular, and who is a law unto herself by the dictates of her own pure, sweet, womanly heart, she is a crank. Discoverers are cranks. Philanthropists and poets are cranks.

Christopher Columbus was a crank, and yet Chicago, after four hundred years, is turning itself head over heels to do him honor. Ah! well, my dear, when you count on your fingers the world's most famous cranks and note the outcome of their crankiness, who would not choose but go down upon the despised list?

The Englishman's Breakfast.

An American should always understand what is meant by a breakfast in London. He will probably take breakfast in his lodgings, or, if he lives in the hotel, in the coffee room at a fixed charge. There are two distinct classes of breakfast, says the Chicago Herald, the light and the substantial, with prices to match. The first is one cup of coffee, one boiled egg and three slices of toast; the latter is one small chop, one egg, a penny loaf of bread, one buttered muffin and coffee. The principal dish of this latter menu is varied in lodging houses from day to day, the chop becoming sausage on Tuesday, ham on Wednesday, fried sole on Thursday, and then the lonely chop again, with the subsequent rotation kept up ad infinitum.

Chills and Fever Cured.

G. W. Messenger, 216 Seneca street, Buffalo, N. Y., writes:

"I was a great sufferer for many years with chills and fever, and tried remedies of all kinds, but found no relief until a friend of mine told me to buy a box of Brandreth's Pills and take them as directed. I used two boxes and believe that I am cured, as I have not been troubled with them for the past year. I cheerfully recomment them to all who suffer."

A Wonder Worker.

Mr. Frank Huffman, a young man of Burlington, Ohio, states that he had been under the care of two prominent physicians, and used their treatment until he could not get around. They pronounced his case to be Consumption and incurable. He was persuaded to try Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs, Colds and at that time was not able to walk across the street without resting. He found, before he had used half of a dollar bottle, that he was much better; he continued to use it and is to-day enjoying good health. If you have any Throat, Lung or Chest trouble try it. We guarantee satisfaction. Trial bottle free at W. Pinniger's Drugstore.

Well Merited Praise.

In almost every neighborhood there is some one or more persons whose lives have been saved by Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy, or who have been cured of chronic diarrhœa by it. It will produce a pleasant warmth and relieve you of all pain. Many severe cases have been cured in this way. The Pain Balm can be obtained from J. B. McCullough.

"UNTIL DEATH DOTH PART."

A Popular Young Couple of Reno Take the Marriage Vow.

The wedding last night of George B. Hymers and Miss Annie Becker was largely attended and they were launched on life's troubled sea with great eclat. The ushers, H. B. Rule and Henry Higgins, managed to find seats for those present, which were arranged on either side of the pretty little church, leaving a passage way in the center of about fifteen feet, through which the wedding party passed. As George and his bride appeared at the front entrance the organ pealed forth strains from Mendelssohn's great wedding march, and the bridal party, headed by Frank M. Lee with Miss Nettie Rising of Virginia, entered the church, followed by Mr. Hymers with his expectant bride. They marched to the altar and took their place under a beautiful floral bell depending from a triangle, a gift of Amity Lodge No. 8, K. of P., and Rev. Mr. Lucas pronounced them man and wife after the fashion of the Episcopal marriage ceremony. The church was literally a field of flowers, and the chancel rail and pulpits were handsomely decorated with choicest of God's gifts to man. As they passed out the order was reversed and the bride and groom walked ahead, while two sweet little misses, Hazel Bacon and Edith Becker walked on either side, strewing their pathway with rose leaves. The party was driven to the residence of the bride's mother in Commercial street, where an informal reception was held and the popular young couple were congratulated by their many friends.

The bride was dressed in a neat-fitting gown of white crepe over white silk and wore the conventional white veil, while the bridesmaid was charming in a very neat gown of pink mousseline de soire. The bride and bridesmaid carried bouquets of white sweet peas and maiden hair ferns. The groom and his right-hand man were clad in well-fitting Prince Alberts. If good wishes are worth anything to Mr. and Mrs. Hymers, they are rich, for the Gazette but voices the sentiment of the community when it showers upon them the God bless you's of a large number of true friends.

A DRUMMER'S CHEEK.

A Cool Companion on a Warm Day Breaks Him Up.

She was a demure little miss, who stepped on to the V. & T. train at Reno, with a face as sweetly pretty as Psyche, and a gown that defied adverse criticism.

He was one of those familiar things—the information-crammed drummer. He also had his nerve with him, but took it out of the seat to let her sit down, while he turned and fixed his most fetching smile on her modest face.

She thanked him pleasantly when he adjusted the window and put her shawl in the rack, but ignored all his attempts to enter into conversation. Nothing disconcerted, he glowingly dissertated upon the weather, the crops, business, literature, art, politics, and at last, with a tinge of vexation in his unsuccessful voice, he fell back upon the omnipresent scenery with a rhetorical thud.

"In coming West," said he, grandiloquently, "it is noticeable how the sheeted white of the dogwood's spotted bloom, tinged with the almost magenta blush of the red-bud's flower, like the cheeks of an unexpectedly-kissed maiden, slowly give way to the russeted monotone of the less demonstrative occidental vista of chrome, and the tasselated mottling of the universal chestnut."

"Yes," said she simply, I have noticed the chestnut."

Then he arose, went into the smoking car, and thought so hard that he was carried clear on to Virginia City instead of getting off at Carson and going to Tahoe as he intended.

COLONEL CURRY.

Ungrateful or Careless Carson Neglects the Grave of One to Whom She Is Indebted.

Not a stone or monument of any kind, character or description marks the spot where the late Colonel Abe Curry is buried at Carson. Colonel Curry did more for Carson in his lifetime than any other fifty men have accomplished. To him Carson was very largely indebted for the Mint, for with the help given him by the late Senator James W. Nye, he was able to build that monument that adorns Carson street. He built the courthouse, State Prison, the Warm Springs Hotel, now a part of the State's property, the Curry Engine house and numerous other buildings of lesser note, and was one of the very few progressive citizens that pulled that town out of the mud in 1864-5. One would think the least that city could do would be to erect a stone to his memory, if it was nothing more than a plain white marble slab.

ELEGANT CHINA.

A. H. Manning Carries as Complete a Stock as Can Be Found in the City.

A. H. Manning carries the largest stock of agricultural implements of any house in the State. He is just now making a specialty of mowers and rakes, as well as all kinds of extras, and the farmer who neglects to call and get his prices will regret it.

His stock of table ware is something that every lover of a beautiful dining-room should inspect, for he has the finest china and dining-room splendors that must be seen to be appreciated.

His plumbing and gas-fitting establishment is the most complete of any this side of San Francisco, and none but skilled workmen are employed. If you want anything from a grindstone to the finest wagon that runs, go to A. H. Manning's and get it. The elegant stock can be inspected in the large double store in the Thompson block, Reno, Nev. See ad.

BREVITIES.

Local and General Intelligence.

The first half of the year 1891 is too dead to skin.

The Gazette is on sale at C. A. Thurston's news depot.

Garden hose and lawn mowers at reduced rates for July at Lange & Schmitt's.

Go to John Belz's shop and take a bath in one of his elegant porcelain tubs and you will feel like a new man.

The Pullman sleeper from Virginia and Carson was well filled last evening, principally with Tahoe tourists and other strangers.

The Fort McDermitt military reservation is to be resurveyed and opened to settlement. Every quarter section has already been filed on.

During the past few days of excessive heat in San Francisco over 7,000 pounds of spoiled beef was condemned by the Market Inspector.

If the sweet girl graduate's gown looks all right her essay on the whole duty of man is bound to take with the audience. Marcus Fredrick sells eyeglasses to suit all eyes.

The ladies are flocking to the store of F. Levy & Bro. these warm days to fit themselves out with something cool. They certainly have a very large stock to select from.

Townsend thinks Lundy is waking up. The Index says: The camp has been quite lively this week, consequent upon the arrival of a fresh stock of whisky and several strangers.

An Indian committed suicide in the Ogden jail last Saturday by driving a ten-penny nail into his abdomen, and, to keep the nail in, tied a belt over the wound, and in a short time became a "good Injun."

The Virginia Chronicle of last evening says: Last evening A. L. Edwards, a charter member of the National Guard, presented that company with a handsome 18x12 44-star flag—the first and only regulation company flag in the State.

"Don't neglect your education, Johnny," said the lad's aunt; "who knows? You may be a Senator some day." "Education nothing!" said the youth, scornfully. "I kin play ball better'n de Senators now." Pinniger's soda fountain is running daily during the season.

Slavin, the heavy-weight, knocked Smith out of a 40-foot Marquis of Queensberry ring last night in San Francisco in the 48th round. Now, if some one would come along and give Slavin a pile-driver blow that would do him up the country would be that much better off.

At the Palace Hotel on Monday evening Lieutenant Commander Geo. A. Norris died from an attack of pneumonia. He had been sick for the past three weeks, but his illness was not considered serious until the last few days. Commander Norris, in company with his wife and sister-in-law, Mrs. J. F. Swift, widow of the late Minister to Japan, came on the Belgic with the body of Minister Swift.

COMSTOCK SMASH-UPS.

The Daily Account Is Getting Quite Monotonous.

The summer smash-ups are becoming very numerous on the Comstock and the daily papers there are kept busy recording the Geiger grade runaways and up-sets. They should get up a stereotyped plate and simply change the names as occasion may require, for we observe the cause is usually given in a sentence, which reads: "And returning to town, the horses have been given the rein, etc." "The frightened team continued on, leaving the vehicle in fragments along the road, etc."

Some years ago the Northwestern Stage Company up in Idaho issued an order forbidding ladies from riding on the box seat with the drivers, because the company got mulcted in heavy damages for injuries sustained by a fair outside in an accident whereby the stage went over the grade. The livery men of the Comstock may have to establish regulations for driving in dangerous places.

Baptist Social

There will be an ice cream social at the residence of Mrs. Frank Cook (opposite R. L. Fulton's) to-night, from 5 to 9 o'clock. All are invited.

RENO PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

Reports and Honor Rolls for June, 1891.

Following is Principal Bray's report to the Reno School Board for the month ending June 19, 1891. All honor rolls that teachers have presented are included in the report. Some teachers have not presented honor rolls. The work of the last year has disclosed the necessity of having the work at the Central building begin with the third grade in one room, rising in order, one grade for each room. Heretofore there have been two third grades or "third intermediates" at the Central building. This change will gradually enable better work to be done in the grades up to the High School—will, in fact, enable pupils to get a better preparation for the High School, and in this way, a more thorough public school education:

A Nice Room.

B. M. Coffin has done a very workmanlike job of painting and papering in the court-house. The court-room is finished up in the highest style of the art and Judge Cheney sits on the bench with the air of a Roman Senator since the improvement. It is the finest litigation mill in the State now. Mr. Coffin is doing a nice job on the State's pavilion.

Good Crop.

Farmers in Paradise Valley will soon commence cutting their hay which has been somewhat backward this year on account of the cool weather. J. V. McCurdy has a field of alfalfa on Martin Creek, 100 acres in extent, which he informs us will yield 4 tons to the acre the first crop.

San Francisco Meat Market.

There are no changes to report. Supplies are more than ample for present wants. Improvement in trade is expected when the holidays are over. Following are the rates for whole carcasses from slaughterers to dealers:

BEEF—First quality, 5½c; second quality, 5c; third quality, 4@4½c ℔ ℔.
VEAL—Quotable at 5@6c for large and 5@8c ℔ ℔ for small.
MUTTON—Quotable at 7@8c ℔ ℔.
LAMB—Spring, 8@9c ℔ ℔.
PORK—Live Hogs, on foot, grain fed heavy, 4½@4¾c; light, 5¼@5½c; dressed Hogs, 7@8c ℔ ℔.

Pay the Cooks.

The Carson Appeal says: "Some of the papers are taking exceptions to the fact that the cook in the Stanford University gets $5,000 and the Professor of Philosophy $4,000. We agree with the balance of the press. The cook ought to have $7,000 and the Professor $1,000." The Gazette concurs.

The Foreign Invasion.

Terrible winters thoughout Europe brought forth bitter fruits that ripened in America. "La Grippe" with varying violence broke forth here, and the mortality lists show its shocking ravages in aggravated cases. An alcoholic principal embodied as a medicated stimulent in the form of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters has and will ever prove the best specific. Leading continental and American physicians declare that a medicine with a spirituous basis, such as this, affords the surest guaranty against the tremendous inroads of this shocking malady. When we consider that a slight change of weather is apt to renew it, that it attacks those easily vulnerable organs, the lungs, that its progress is tremendously swift and destructive, we must admit the necessity of repelling it at the outset with a sure preventive. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is almost a safeguard against malaria, dyspepsia, rheumatism, liver and kidney complaints.

Spring Fever.

At this season of the year the most vigorous and hearty people often have a feeling of weariness, tired and worn out, without ambition to do anything, and many break out in pimples and boils. What you require is a mild tonic medicine that will act gently on the liver and blood, and for this nothing equals Dr. Gunn's Improved Liver Pills. They give an activity to the liver, purify the blood and by their mild tonic action, new vitality and strength to the whole system. Sold for 25 cents a box by S. J. Hodgkinson.

SURROUNDED BY WOLVES.

Ohio Not Yet Relieved from the Unpleasant Presence of Wild Beasts.

Ninety-nine persons in a hundred, says a Toledo correspondent of the New York Times, would declare from their general knowledge of the state that there are not wolves enough in Ohio to seriously threaten anybody. Had they been with Mr. E. L. Valois, of Toledo, a few weeks ago in one of his hunting trips to what is known as the Oak Openings, a barren tract not far from Sylvania and about twelve miles from Toledo, they would have had abundant reason to change their minds.

Mr. Valois is one of the best-known insurance men in Toledo, and is widely known as an enthusiastic and successful sportsman. Nobody in northwestern Ohio is more familiar with the haunts of grouse, squirrels and other small game than he, and few marksmen in that region excel him in skill. One morning several weeks ago he took his best dog and started in a light one-horse spring wagon for the Oak Openings. The region is peculiar. It is a large, barren tract, partly prairie and partly covered with stunted trees. Nobody lives there, and for years it has been a hunter's paradise. Ruffled grouse, prairie chicken, with an occasional deer, have been found in large numbers, and only in the last two years or so have there been any signs of decrease. For miles there is not a dwelling, and it is often difficult for a man to find his way. Indeed, it has not been many years since a well-known real estate man of Toledo was lost for five days in this tangle of stunted forest and barren open.

The day Mr. Valois had chosen proved a cloudy one, with frequent flurries of snow, but it was an unusually good day for shooting, and before night Mr. Valois had the botton of his wagon filled with fine game. The clouds broke toward evening and the moon rose full and bright. It was nearly seven o'clock before he started for home. The roads are winding trails through the woods and around ponds and swamps, and slow progress was made. It was an hour or more before he began to get out of the woods, for he had pushed further than usual into the wildest parts of the tract.

As he proceeded he heard strange sounds in the woods about him, howlings and barkings, but gave them little thought. He knew there were some wolves of the common gray species in the opening and myriads of foxes, but had not the remotest fear of attack until as he neared the edge of the woods he was startled by pitiful cries from his dog under the wagon. He stopped his horse and jumped to the ground, gun in hand, to see what was the matter, and was surprised to find himself surrounded by wolves. Throwing his gun hastily to his shoulder, he fired into the pack, killing what he took to be the leader, but instead of being frightened away as he had hoped, they rushed at and devoured their dead leader and then began to crowd closer around the wagon in ever-increasing numbers.

The dog's courage deserted him, and he started toward the open with part of the pack after him. Valois fired right and left rapidly, but the hungry creatures crowded closer around him. They leaped into the wagon and devoured the game, and then rushed at the horse, snapping at his legs and leaping at his throat. Before Valois could climb back into the wagon the horse started at full speed and the hunter was left with a score of hungry wolves around him in as ugly a predicament as one could imagine. He had only eight shells left in his belt, and the barking, snarling pack around him there in the stunted timber nearly unmanned him.

The first impulse was to seek safety in a tree, but he soon discovered that though the pack made a fearful racket and would occasionally rush toward him, they lacked the ferocious courage of the great timber wolves. He used his eight shells carefully and judiciously, meantime slowly working himself out of the woods. After about an hour's fighting he got well away from the whole pack and started on foot for Sylvania, the nearest railroad station. There he got a freight train about midnight and arrived safely at home before morning, where he found his horse awaiting him considerably the worse for its trip home. The dog has not yet put in an appearance.

Mr. Valois will not soon be caught again alone at night in the Oak Openings, even if they are within about a dozen miles of the corporation line of a city of 80,000 people, the fourth in size in Ohio.

Sounds of the Jungle.

I lately made two shooting trips to the jungles of lower Burmah, and each time in the midst of the greatest hardships. The forest scenery had the power to force itself upon the notice as seeming each day more and more impressive and magnificent, writes a traveler. At such times both the silence and the strange sounds of the jungles, each in their different way, combine to affect the sportsman; the occasional weird hootings of the monkeys in the treetops; the distant flap, flap of an elephant's ears breaking in upon the perfect stillness as you approach the herd, or perhaps, instead, the penny-trumpet-like squeak which announces its proximity; and, as the day wears on the stillness is suddenly broken in upon by the whirring and soon almost deafening sound with which with one accord the insects revive after the heat of the afternoon. All these influences combine to produce an effect which those who have not experienced them will find difficult to imagine, and those who have experienced them must find hard to describe.

Must Read the Papers.

No one knows as well as the woman of the day how much she herself depends upon the newspapers and magazines for the charms and brilliancy that seem to be all her own. She must read the papers, and she knows it. And the more she reads the better it will be for her, says the Illustrated American. Whether in the crowded horse car or seated upon her luxurious couch in her dainty boudoir, she seeks and eagerly scans the latest and best that is in print, for well she knows that she must add a charm of mind to a beautiful face and stylish dress, or the very ones whom she would give her life and soul to please will turn from her with a yawn

Aggravated Cases.

An absent-minded woman in this town started down street the other day, says the Fairfield (Me.) Journal, and slipped and fell flat. In recovering herself she got turned around and started back home. She is a cousin to a woman who started to prepare the evening meal recently when she sneezed, and upon recovering thought she was "doing up" the supper dishes. She put everything away nicely and sat down for a quiet evening.

"August Flower"

I had been troubled five months with Dyspepsia. The doctors told me it was chronic. I had a fullness after eating and a heavy load in the pit of my stomach. I suffered frequently from a Water Brash of clear matter. Sometimes a deathly Sickness at the Stomach would overtake me. Then again I would have the terrible pains of Wind Colic. At such times I would try to belch and could not. I was working then for Thomas McHenry, Druggist, Cor. Irwin and Western Ave., Allegheny City, Pa., in whose employ I had been for seven years. Finally I used August Flower, and after using just one bottle for two weeks, was entirely relieved of all the trouble. I can now eat things I dared not touch before. I would like to refer you to Mr. McHenry, for whom I worked, who knows all about my condition, and from whom I bought the medicine. I live with my wife and family at 39 James St., Allegheny City, Pa. Signed, JOHN D. COX.
